

ARTHUR PARSONS

As a child Arthur would always take a different route to school than the other kids, whether he jumped rolled or climbed, he saw the journey as an opportunity to have fun. It is no surprise that Arthur joined the National Centre for Circus Arts where he developed his skills to become the circus artist that he is today.

Arthur has worked with Barely Methodical Troupe