

GENI LOU

Geni Lou is an independent hip hop dance artist and producer. Originally from Montreal, Canada, Geni has established herself as a strong female voice within the UK's Hip Hop dance scene by performing on multiple platforms (Breakin' Convention, Wilderness Festival, B Side Festival), teaching for renown organizations (ZooNation, Shockout Arts, IMD, The Jam Festival) and judging events throughout the country. She is one of few women specializing in the styles of Popping and Waacking. Through years of practice and dedication she has gained the respect and recognition of peers nationally and internationally.

Beyond her artistic practice, Geni has also contributed to the dance ecology by working as an assistant producer for Bust A Move Festival (One of North America's largest street dance festival), project manager for Bboyizm Dance Company (Canada's premiere hip hop company, trainee producer at The Place (ChangeMaker) and assistant producer for independent artist Chris Reyes.
